My mother and aunts immigrated to the U.S. from Mexico when they were about 17 years old. They each had a visa. My mother has told me that it was not easy to be away from her home and her parents. She regrets that she was not directed to go to school. She came here to live better and to help her family back in Mexico by sending them money.

- Lizette (California)